Equities normally have more risk than cash or fixed income so the greater allocation to equities, the more aggressive the portfolio. Bonds are subject to market and interest rate risk if sold prior to maturity. Bond values will decline as interest rates rise and bonds are subject to availability and change in price. High yield/junk bonds (grade BB or below) are investment grade securities, and are subject to higher interest rate, credit, and liquidity risks than those graded BB and above. They generally should be part of a diversified portfolio for sophisticated investors.

International investing involves special risk such as currency fluctuation and political instability and may not be suitable for all investors. These risks are often heightened for investments in emerging markets. Investing in Real Estate Investment Trusts (REITs) involves special risk such as potential illiquidity and may not be suitable for all investors. There is no assurance that the investment objectives of this program will be attained. No strategy, including asset allocation, assures success, or protects against loss. Stock investing involves risk including loss of principal. The prices of small and mid-cap stocks are generally more volatile than large cap stocks.

These asset allocation models are provided to participants for educational purposes only. These models do not constitute investment advice or recommendations. These asset allocation portfolios were created for hypothetical individuals with different time horizons and risk portfolios.
